LETTER FROM CONFERENCE AND WORKSHOP CHAIRS

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

It is our pleasure to invite you to the 2016 AATOD Conference being held October 29 through November 2, 2016 at the Marriott Waterfront in Baltimore, Maryland. This year's conference is being sponsored by the Maryland Behavioral Health Administration.

The conference theme, Saving Lives: Access to Improved Health & Recovery highlights the issues and challenges of medication assisted treatment in the context of health care reform. The conference will provide an opportunity to interact with leading national and international treatment experts working on innovative strategies to expand and enhance the skills of the behavioral healthcare workforce and contribute to the adoption of evidence based practices in the treatment of opioid use disorders. Your attendance at this conference will provide you with the latest evidence relevant to the field of opioid treatment and allow you to critically evaluate the implications for patients, clinicians, administrators, and policy makers. In addition, there will be programming on ways to better promote, support, facilitate, and integrate medication assisted treatment into the judicial systems, government, and social service organizations. By expanding your facilities' role for collaboration and effective partnerships among and between organizations, we can improve the quality of treatment and the lives of those we serve.

The workshop committee extends an invitation for you to submit a proposal highlighting your research and/or clinical expertise in the provision of care to those with, or affected by, opioid use disorders. The Call for Presentations seeks proposals for workshops and posters that will present the innovative strategies happening in our clinics, the collaboration and partnerships between treatment program and community services, as well as the best practice models that support the full continuum of care and recovery from opioid use disorders.

Each new conference year, we look to build on the success of the previous conference. We focused on the impact of prescription opioids on the healthcare system during the 2015 Conference in Atlanta. This year, we aim to take the next step and address the partnerships between opioid treatment providers and the linkages with community health care, social service, judicial, and government agencies needed to better serve our population. At our Hot Topic Roundtables, you will have the opportunity to discuss and debate the latest evidence-based treatment models in use internationally and nationally. The AATOD conference will also provide a forum for you to network, meet colleagues and friends, and invite lively discussion around the current trends in opioid maintenance treatment.

Baltimore, or "Charm City" as it is also known, is a vibrant city with a beautiful waterfront, eclectic restaurants, museums, and much to see and do. Baltimore is home to Fort McHenry, which defended the Baltimore Harbor during the War of 1812; the USS Constellation, the last Civil War vessel still afloat; and the country's first cathedral, the Basilica of the National Shrine of Assumption. Baltimore is also the birthplace of the national anthem, penned by Francis Scott Key, and the American Railroad. Thurgood Marshall, Frederick Douglas, Billie Holiday, Cab Calloway, and Babe Ruth all once called Baltimore "home." There is no better time to visit this beautiful city than in the fall.

On behalf of AATOD's Board, our hosts, and our planning committee, it is our hope that you will submit a proposal for presentation and join us in Baltimore in 2016.

Sincerely,

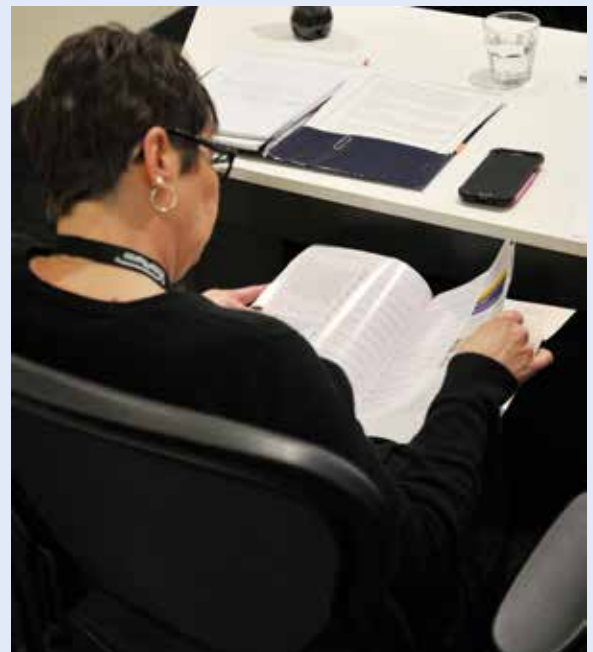

Vickie L. Walters, LCSW-C
Conference Chair

Kellie Rollins, PsyD
Workshop Committee Chair

ABOUT BALTIMORE

Greetings from Baltimore! We're excited to be serving as host for the 2016 AATOD Conference with our theme: Saving Lives: Access to Improved Health & Recovery. Baltimore is a city that has struggled with drug addiction for decades, and has confronted the challenge by saving lives through publicly-supported treatment programs and successful efforts to reduce deaths from overdose. Baltimore has benefited from dynamic leadership in public health, and from the presence of major medical institutions. All have joined in efforts to arrest opioid abuse in our communities.

The host hotel, the Marriott Waterfront, is situated in Harbor East, a "city within a city" that has become part of Baltimore's impressive skyline over the last 15 years. It is full of excellent restaurants and boutiques with superb views of Baltimore's redeveloped, post-industrial waterfront.

The hotel is a short walk from Baltimore's world-famous Inner Harbor, with shops and restaurants along a brick promenade that rings the area. In fact, the promenade serves as a seven-mile pathway connecting one edge of the harbor rim to the other—from historic Fort McHenry, site of the 1814 battle that inspired Francis Scott Key's writing of "The Star-Spangled Banner," to Canton, the exciting southeast Baltimore neighborhood that has seen tremendous population growth over the last three decades. If you walk the walk, make sure you make a stop in historic Fells Point, another old Baltimore neighborhood that has been in revival since the 1970s.

Because the AATOD Conference is being held in October, and during Halloween, you won't want to miss the festivities in Fells Point. For years, students of the Maryland Institute College of Art have gathered in "the Point" dressed in creative costumes and makeup to celebrate the occasion. Make sure you bring a camera because your friends back home might not believe your descriptions of what you see along Thames Street.

Speaking of art, Baltimore has wonderful museums: Walters Art Museum, Baltimore Museum of Art (featuring a world-famous collection of Matisse), B&O Railroad Museum, American Visionary Arts Museum, and The National Great Blacks in Wax Museum. Just a short stroll from the Waterfront Marriott are the Star-Spangled Banner Flag House, where Mary Pickersgill sewed the flag that inspired Key to write our national anthem; the Reginald

F. Lewis Museum of Maryland African-American History and Culture; the Jewish Museum of Maryland, home to two of the nation's oldest synagogues; and the Baltimore Civil War Museum at President Street Station, which explores the city's status during the war and its connection to the Underground Railroad.

Baltimore is home of the vast Johns Hopkins University and Medical Institutions, including the Bloomberg School of Public Health and one of the leading hospitals in the world. Across town, on the western edge of growing downtown Baltimore, is the University of Maryland Medical System, schools of law, medicine, and school of social work. Just north of there is the city's oldest public market, Lexington Market. All of these sites are accessible by an MTA bus or Baltimore's free downtown circulator.

AATOD, the Hospitality Committee, Behavioral Health System Baltimore, and the Behavioral Health Administration of Maryland welcome you to Baltimore. See you in October!

Sincerely,
Lillian M Donnard, LCSW-C
AATOD Hospitality Chair

This course is recommended for clinicians who have an interest in increasing their knowledge of medication assisted treatment (MAT) for opioid dependence. The updated curriculum includes current consensus guidance for best practice treatment for opioid addiction, focusing primarily on utilization of methadone.

Topics include overview of opioid dependence, epidemiology, opioid pharmacology, evidence-based treatment options, patient assessment/selection, special populations, induction and maintenance protocols, pain management, drug-to-drug interactions, adverse effects, methadone deaths, managing medical/psychiatric problems, drug testing, regulatory issues, an accreditation update, risk management, and an overview of other medication modalities.

While the course is primarily intended for clinicians with limited experience in MAT, it also provides updated information for more experienced clinicians. Participants will receive a comprehensive syllabus with reference and resource materials. To further integrate the educational objectives, participants are encouraged to discuss challenging problems and clinical issues to facilitate understanding of didactic principles.

Experienced opioid treatment program Medical Directors will conduct the program, focusing on the goal for participants to acquire the essential knowledge and skills necessary to deliver safe and effective medication assisted treatment for patients with opioid dependence.
